Description

Hatton Technology Park has installed the latest generation of high speed internet to become the first rural Technology Park in the south Midlands to offer this crucial service.

The Technology Park is owned by Johnnie Arkwright whose Ancestor Sir Richard Arkwright made the technological breakthrough with the Spinning Jenny that led to his building the first factory in the world in 1770. It was the start of the Industrial Revolution and the end of cottage industry.

Now Mr Arkwright is reversing the process by using the very latest technology to enable businesses to return to the countryside. He said in an interview with Birmingham Post Business - "The lack of high speed internet access in rural areas is a big national issue. We are making a significant investment and the response from prospective occupiers has been fantastic, it's a real breakthrough".

Location

Companies like the location as it allows easy access to the Motorway and Railway networks. The M40 (J.15) is within a 10 minute drive, Birmingham is only 15 miles, Birmingham International Airport, 10 miles and the high speed Railway connection at Warwick Parkway (5 mins) Birmingham – London line.

Hatton Technology Park (CV35 8XB) is located off the A.4177 Solihull to Warwick road.
